North Lakes Golf Course proposed sale and redevelopment.

Is this a done deal, or can it be stopped somehow?

This is far from a done deal. The developer (Village Retirement Group) will need to lodge a Development Application (DA) with Council to have the land use changed from recreational open space to aged care facility which is currently strictly prohibited under Council's own Master Plan. You can lodge an official objection to the DA which Council must consider when voting.

The owner says he is losing money and he doesn't have enough golfers, so can the Golf Course really survive?

The Australian Sports Commission research recently concluded golf is the most popular club sport for adults in Australia. A recent Golf Australia report shows golf memberships in the Moreton region actually grew last year. By introducing new, more flexible membership options and playing prices that better suit modern lifestyles, the club can attract new golfers and past members who have left to join neighbouring clubs.

I don't play golf so why is this important to me?

North Lakes Golf Course is far more than just a golf course. It provides an essential environmental buffer zone through the central corridor of our community. It has also become home to a variety of wildlife including Koalas and Kangaroos and is a vital channel for flood waters to escape.

I heard VRG would only build on 15% of the land with the rest being green space. Is that true?

15% is still a very large development in the heart of a quiet residential area. It's the foot-print size of Westfield North Lakes. VRG may not stop at 15%. If the land is rezoned and the DA is approved, they will own all the land; and because it will all be rezoned, they could easily then develop on as much of the land as they want. Once the land is rezoned, residents and objectors will have very little prospect of stopping further development. Any land that VRG don't end up building on will likely become unmaintained scrubland which will increase the bush fire threat to surrounding homes, anti-social behaviour and illegal dumping and be a new breeding ground for mosquitos.

I'd like to get involved to help, but what can one person do?

1. Send an email to savenorthlakes@gmail.com and include your name, how the proposed development will impact you and how you think you can help. You will be added to the mailing list so you can stay informed and be invited to upcoming events.
2. Join over 3,800 residents who have already joined the Save North Lakes Golf Course Facebook group.
3. Sign the various local and state government petitions.
4. Start preparing now to be an objector should VRG lodge their development application.

SPRAY & STAY

Q: How much hairspray is too much hairspray? Emma, via email

A: Over use of hairspray is only a problem if it leaves residue and isn't easily dissolved with shampoo. our fave hairspray is Spray & Stay by Sexy Hair, for a solid finish.

Hair for a rock solid finish. Spray hair a good distance away (30cm) and remember, if you use more than you need your hair will end up getting weighed down and go limp.

EXTEND IT!

Q: What hair extensions are best for my hair? Caitlin, via email

A: I find that tape extensions and individual beads are unnatural in appearance and very hard on your hair and scalp. As a trichologist I found that the weft extensions were the most gentle and best for blending.

LOVE THE LOB

Q: What hair cut is on trend this season? Sarah, via email

A: We are in love with the LOB or long bob. Of course we are moving away from a sleek bob and more towards an 'undone' finish. The H2D iron is the best way to achieve loose waves and finish with Sexy Hair's dry wax: PLAY DIRTY!

1. Spray & Stay by Sexy Hair. 2. H2D Wand. 3. Play Dirty dry wax by Sexy Hair.

UNITYWATER'S COMMUNITY SPONSORSHIP PROGRAM

For the third year in a row, Unitywater is offering community initiatives up to $10,000 each as part of its Community Sponsorship Program.

The program supports charities, organisations and projects that align with Unitywater's purpose of keeping communities healthy, within the categories of community wellbeing, plastic prevention and the environment.

To date 37 environment and community wellbeing initiatives have received support through the program over the last two years.

This year, the sponsorship program will offer a new category of plastic prevention to align with our Unitywater's Back to Tap program, which encourages people to ditch single-use plastic water bottles for a reusable bottle and tap water.

"We are looking to support initiatives that help educate our community on the impact of plastic waste and drive behavioural change to reduce consumption of single-use plastics," said Community Relations Manager Chris Jones.

Applications close 4 October.

BIGGEST EKKA SINCE 2011

Value ticket prices, perfect weather and a show of support for our farmers brought a whopping 415,000 people to the people's show this year, the biggest Royal Queensland Show (Ekka) since 2011.

Queenslanders came droves to the 141st Ekka with this year's attendance figure surpassing the 413,000 which came through the gates in 2011.

After 10 days of competition, exhibitions and entertainment, the world class EkkanITES show and fireworks finale closed the show last Sunday to rave reviews.

The highlights of Ekkanites this year saw a futuristic fireworks spectacular featuring a world first 'fireball' vehicle and Australian first remote control cars strapped with pyros zooming around the Main Arena at more than 100km an hour and a Wild Colonial Wagon Chase featuring a ground shaking cattle stampede.

The official figures are staggering - there were more than 220k Dagwood Dogs and more than 180k Strawberry Sundaes eaten amongst many other impressive stats the show generated $220 million while 1620 volunteers helped out.

The Bertie Beetle was once again the most popular showbag with over 250,000 sold. The Squishy and Slime trends show no signs of slowing with those showbags top sellers and the good old Caramello Koala bag still a winner.

'EVERYONE GETS A MEDAL' - EXCEPT FOR ACTUAL ACHIEVEMENTS

Hi Leonie,

Your column two weeks ago raised an issue for me that seems similar but is entirely different. Again, it's about the current 'everyone gets a medal' culture, but I'm seeking your help on a bit of social engineering; about how to approach the teacher/school about the issue as I see it, without coming off as 'one of those parents'.

I have my first born in Prep this year. He's a natural reader, always has been. For context, we have trouble getting his sister to read, so I'm not beating my chest - it's more nature than nurture. He's reading at such a high level (for Prep) that they've given him non-standard tests to gauge his level and probe testing for comprehension. Turns out he's reading at a level that would pass grade three.

So that's great, and we're very proud, but an issue was brought to light by my son.

At assembly each week students are given awards. We now realise that these are actually 'encouragement awards' given to students with either social development or academic difficulties. For an example that relates to my son, one student in his class was given an award for reading because she read her first three-word sentence. This is fine, and we do understand the merit of encouragement awards.

However, my 5-year-old son has a problem with it, and I worry about the consequences of what this is teaching him. He knows he's the best reader in his class and in the whole prep year in fact, but he came home upset recently that there's no recognition for him. He was upset. Crying, and asking when he will get an award. So, it seems at this school (perhaps in all of them) real recognition for doing well isn't acknowledged outside of the classroom. No amount of explaining what encouragement awards will ease his five-year-old mind. While he's cooled off a bit now, he was inconsolable at the time. His young mind recognised this as unfair.

It's a sensitive subject that I'd like to raise with his teacher. I tend to be blunt and straightforward. But I realise being blunt may not work so well approaching this matter with the school. I don't want to come across as one of those overbearing parents, but I also don't want the school to teach my five year old son that academic achievement isn't rewarded. Can you give me some tactics for approaching the teacher, or the school about this matter?

I appreciate any time you can give to my question.

Regards, Dan (Woody Point)

Hi Dan,

If we take special needs children out of the discussion, as I see it this system of rewarding everyone is creating disincentives in children who work hard and strive to achieve their full potential.

Here is what I think. Somehow, in some way, we as a culture decided that if we give kids rewards regardless of their success or failures we will raise children to have good levels of self esteem and that we will motivate them to continue any endeavour they got that reward for. I also feel that it confuses children and may cause a delay in them finding their own special skills and talents.

If a child sees that he is not so good at something, let's say football, but he is getting awards this may delay him finding a sport that he is really good at. I once saw a very well known tennis player say that he played soccer and just couldn't get the skills this sport required. He commented that this made him feel that he was no good at sports. That is until he got a tennis racquet in his hand and boy is he good at the sport of tennis.

Promoting the idea that everybody wins with these participation certificates and so on may not be the best message to be sending our children. In life not, everyone does win. Our success mostly come from commitment, hard work and striving to do our best. Many kids will get very comfortable with the idea of getting rewards for just showing up rather than being a good team member and winning games. Sport should be fun and involve friendly rule bound adversarial goals.

In my view, giving out awards for first, second and third with an additional award for best effort and sports ethics is the best idea so that children can see in a concrete way that effort does indeed get rewarded. I feel sports and other competitions should send the same message that children will get in the real world and that is "not everyone gets a trophy for showing up".

Children should be told the truth about life and that is People who skill up as well as show up get rewarded in real life.

Meeting with schools about this issue in my view is a waste of time. They are very unlikely to change their way of doing things just because one or two parents complain. If you are paying for a private school, you may fair better.

I suggest you change your way of parenting to accommodate for practices that you believe are not right. You can do this by sitting down with your boy, forming a letter to the school about your views and delivering it to the Principal. When you put something in writing you are more likely to get a response. The very act of doing this shows your child what his family views on the matter are. By doing this you are you are be inclusive with your boy and sending a message that you hear him, you agree with him and you have done everything in your power to change the system. So as always, the strongest role model for children is their same sex parent.

Hope this helps.

YOUR STARS

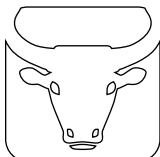

AQUARIUS. (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19): A temporary truce may last longer than you think. There's no shame in being cautiously optimistic.

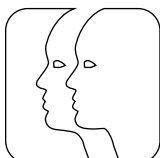

PISCES. (Feb. 20 - March 20): Let others fly off in all directions with their Chicken Little hissy fits. They'll settle down eventually. You are the center that can – and will – hold.

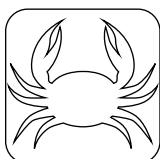

ARIES. (March 21 - April 20): Introduce changes slowly and they'll stick. Anything done overnight will be undone just as quickly.

TAURUS. (April 21 - May 21): Make a point of listening to critics. Yes their approach may have something to be desired, but they still have valuable information to impart.

GEMINI. (May 22 - June 21): Criticized for micromanaging, your attention to detail pays off today when disparate pieces come together. Consider yourself vindicated.

CANCER. (June 22 - July 23): If you're waiting on the whys and wherefores to map out where you want to go from here, then you won't get anywhere. Use your imagination and put the horse back in front of the cart.

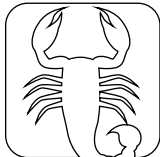

LEO. (July 24 - Aug. 23): Things suddenly turn out in your favor today. This allows you to settle a financial dispute that's been dogging you for too long.

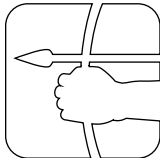

VIRGO. (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23): Fears are banished in the glow of accomplishment. Go ahead and thank that person who kept pushing when you wanted to fold.

LIBRA. (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23): Why is it that every time you draw the line someone keeps crossing it? Perhaps you should set boundaries after you familiarize yourself with the situation and not before.

SCORPIO. (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22): You're like the Hulk. You only get stronger the angrier you feel. People who misjudged you and thought you were easy pickings are in for a very rude awakening.

SAGITTARIUS. (Nov. 23 - Dec. 21): It takes guts for someone to apologize, so be courteous about accepting it even if you're still sore.

CAPRICORN. (Dec. 22 - Jan. 20): You won't win everything that you're fighting for, but you will get most of it. It's still more than what you initially expected.

The campaign to Save North Lakes Golf Course

As most local residents know, we were recently advised of the plan to sell the North Lakes Golf Course to develop an aged care facility on the site.

I, like many residents, strongly oppose this greenspace being developed, even if it just a small percentage of the current golf course. This proposed development stands to significantly change the landscape and layout of North Lakes, which will change the lifestyle you all moved here to experience.

The authority to stop this from happening sits solely with the Moreton Bay Regional Council, however as the local Federal Member for the area I feel strongly that it should remain a golf course and I'm doing my best to help.

I attended the peaceful protest on Saturday morning and spoke to many of you. Thank you to everyone who shared their concerns with me.

Here's an update of what I've done this week to make sure your voices are heard:

- Spoke in Federal Parliament on 14th August – urging the Council not to approve the DA
- Spoken to Rebecca Levingston and Craig Zonca on ABC 612 Mornings
- Spoken to Ray Hadley on ABC Radio
- Met the owner of the Golf Course and expressed my desire for the site to remain a golf course
- Written to Mayor Allan Sutherland asking for a meeting to discuss the options
- Written to the State Minister, Cameron Dick asking for a meeting to update him on the situation
- Spoken to the local State MP and asked for him to support the campaign

What's Next?

Many people have been asking me what they can do to make sure they're heard. Here's some things you can do to keep this campaign going:

- Keep going to meetings. A strong showing at these events sends a message
- Continue to talk to neighbours and friends - many people don't know about the sale so we need to keep telling people!
- Continue to play golf and use the facilities at the Club. If we want this to remain a golf course it has to be viable.
- If you aren't already, please join the Save North Lakes Golf Course Facebook page

Rest assured, I will continue to stand with you throughout this process and please don't hesitate to contact me to chat further

Regards,

Luke

SCHOOL2STAGE RECIPE FOR DISASTER

Date: 28 August – 01 September

Location: Concert Hall, QPAC

School2Stage is a platform for young performers across Australia that sees professional Directors sent into local high schools to work alongside students. Together they create unique shows that are then performed on the biggest stages. It's the largest performative event for young people in Queensland.

Add pest control to your spring clean

Sandgate Pest Control will help prevent spring pests from infesting your home. As the months get warmer pests become more noticeable as they start to build nests and forage for food.

Home owners often think that annual pest control treatments are not needed when there is no evident activity. By not having regular treatments your unprotected home allows a suitable habitat for pests on the move.

Keeping on top of your annual pest control prevents infestations from occurring. Rather than having to fix a problem, prevent the problem.

It is important that you get an experienced pest professional to protect your home, because a do it yourself quick fix can end up costing you more.

Sandgate Pest Control can apply the chemical safely to your home without exposing the occupants to any unnecessary risk that comes with doing it yourself.

When you are booking your general pest control, book your annual timber pest inspection to save you time and money.

RENTAL PROPERTY INCOME UNDER REVIEW

ATO hunting rental-related tax avoiders

The Australian Taxation Office (ATO) is launching an extensive data-matching program to identify taxpayers receiving income from short term rentals. Information from online platform sharing sites for around 190,000 Australians will be examined to identify taxpayers who have left out rental income and over-claimed deductions.

In 2016, approximately 2.1 million individuals reported rental income of $42 billion. Assistant Commissioner Kath Anderson said that rental properties are high on the ATO's priority list given that the rental market is a significant share of the economy and there is evidence that some taxpayers are getting it wrong.

"The availability of short stay rentals has exploded thanks to the online revolution. With the growing number of homes, apartments, units and rooms available via accommodation sharing sites, there is a real risk some people may not understand their tax obligations," Ms Anderson said.

The ATO will match data provided by online rental platforms and their financial institutions against ATO records to identify taxpayers not meeting their registration, reporting, lodgement, or payment obligations when renting out property on a short term basis. The new data complements long-term rentals information which the ATO already receives from State and Territory Bond Boards.

The data collected will include income received per listing as well as listing dates, enquiry and booking rates, prices charged or quoted per night and other information.

"We are increasingly using data and technology, to identify any missing income in your tax returns. This data will also identify taxpayers who use sharing economy rental platforms to list a property that is not genuinely available for rent in order to claim unwarranted deductions. There is no high-tech hideaway for rental income.

ANY INCOME FROM RENTING ALL OR PART OF A HOUSE OR UNIT NEEDS TO BE DECLARED, EVEN IF IT IS JUST A ONE-OFF. THERE IS NO SUCH THING AS A RENTAL "HOBBY".

"The ATO often allows taxpayers who have made genuine errors to amend their returns without penalty. But deliberate attempts to avoid tax on rental income could see the ATO take action."

There are a few simple rules rental property owners should follow to avoid making mistakes on their tax return.

First, make sure you declare all your income. While the sharing economy has changed the way we do business, it hasn't changed the ATO's definition of income. Any income from renting all or part of a house or unit needs to be declared, even if it is just a one-off. There is no such thing as a rental "hobby".

Secondly, only claim deductions for the periods your property is rented out or is genuinely available for rent. And if you are renting part or all of your main residence, you can only claim deductions for the time it was actually rented. If a property is rented out below market rates, for example to family or friends, deduction claims are limited to the amount of income earned.

Remember, costs to repair damage, defects or deterioration existing on purchase, or renovation costs, can't be claimed as an immediate deduction. These costs are deductible over a number of years.

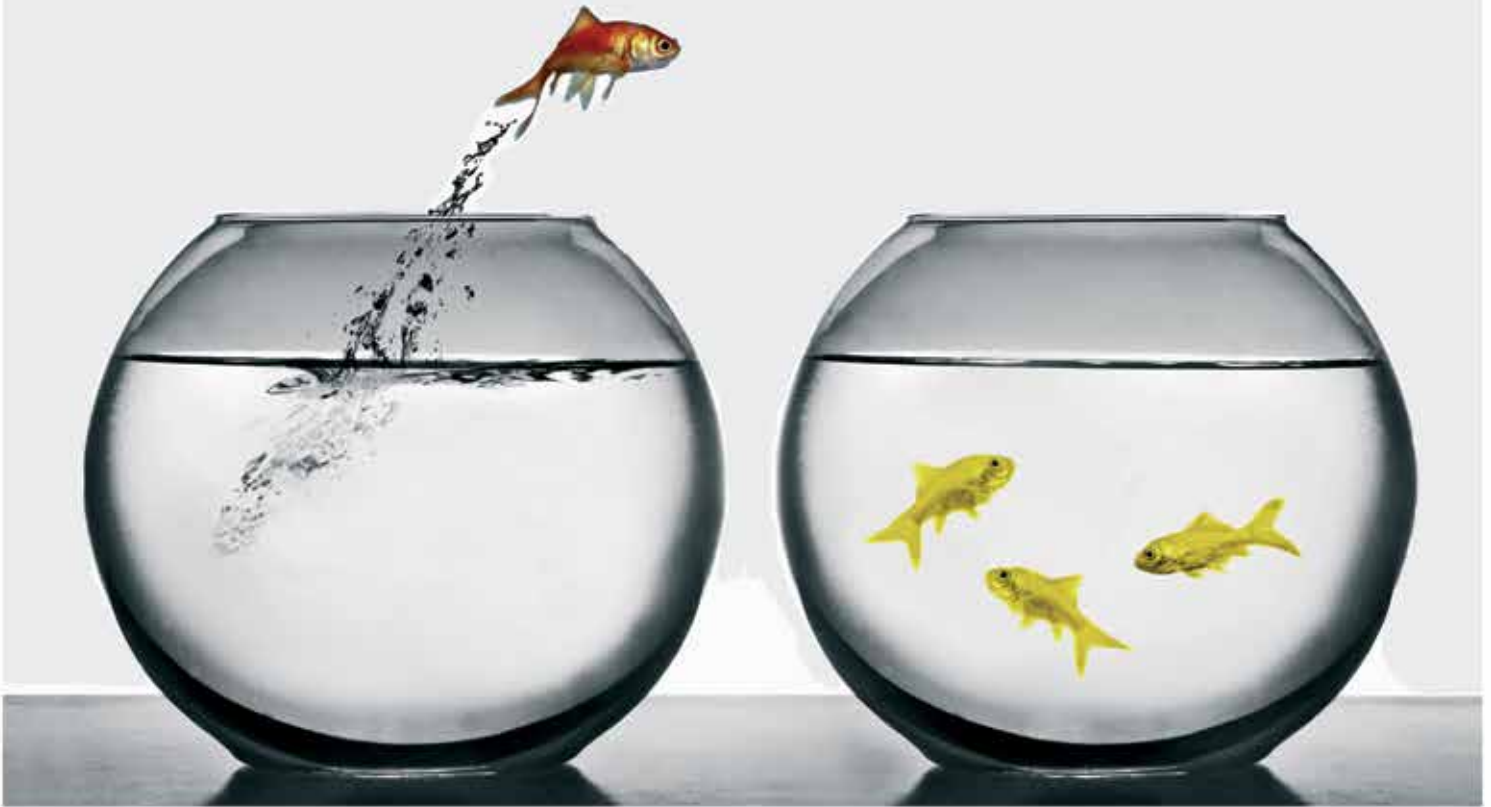

Finally, it is important for all property owners to keep accurate records. This helps to ensure they declare the right amount of rental income and they have evidence for claims made.

Taxpayers or tax agents that have made an error or omission should contact the ATO as soon as possible. Penalties may be significantly reduced in circumstances where we are contacted prior to an audit. Maximum penalties can be as high as 75% of the tax shortfall.

Taxpayers contacted by the ATO will be given the opportunity to verify information collected from data providers before any compliance action is undertaken and will be given at least 28 days to clarify any information obtained.

Details of the ATO's data matching strategies are published at www.ato.gov.au/datamatching
